TOGETHER IN SCRIPTURE

Genesis Week Four – 3:1–3:24

Context: Setting the Table

After the magnificent introduction of 1:1–2:3, the first section of Genesis (2:4–4:26) relates the “history of the heavens and the earth.” We saw last week (2:4–2:25) how abundantly God provided for his image bearers. This week (3:1–24) tells the sad story of how our first parents nevertheless chose to trust the serpent more than the Creator, transforming God’s very good creation into the sin-cursed world of rebels we now inhabit.

Content: Hearing the Text

Read Genesis 3:1–3:24 together out loud.

Credo: Believing the Truth

Though Adam and Eve had it really good in the beautiful garden the LORD God placed them in, an evil being disguised as a snake convinced them that they didn’t have it good enough. According to the snake, God was holding out on them. If they would only eat from the one forbidden tree, they could become as powerful and wise as their Creator. Our first parents swallowed the lie and ate the fruit. While their disobedience devastated the creation the LORD God had made so good, it did not change his plans for his image bearers. Though the path to redemption would be long and difficult, rebellion could not and would not have the final word.

Conduct: Reshaping Our Walk

The serpent convinced Eve that God was “holding out on her,” that the one tree God had forbidden was really more desirable than all the other trees he had so freely given. How might we be tempted to devalue all that God has already given us by focusing on what he hasn’t?

When confronted with their rebellion, Adam blamed Eve and Eve blamed the serpent. What are some areas of rebellion in our own lives that we are tempted to blame others for?

Examples: Blaming sinful anger on those who provoke us; Young people blaming their rebellion on the strictness of their parents etc.

Book of the Month

J. I. Packer's Knowing God has become a classic of the Christian faith. It helps draw us closer in our relationship with God. It brings together two important facets of the Christian faith — knowing about God and also knowing God through the context of a close relationship with the person of Jesus Christ. Written in an engaging and practical tone, this thought-provoking work seeks to transform and enrich the Christian understanding of God, explaining both who God is and how we can relate to him.
